Har Ki Dun located in Uttarakhand is full of Lush greenery, Scraggy Mountains, towering Snow capped Peaks, Glaciers, Streams and Beautiful Landscapes of New Zealand in India.

You have seen the Lord of the Rings, you need not go all the way to New Zealand!!

The trek to Har ki Dun will provide you with all the sights that you are looking for. This cradle shaped valley is surrounded by dense forests of pine, deodar and other coniferous trees.

It is totally covered by a blanket of blue and purple flowers. Associated with a legend from the Mahabharata, the name Har-ki-Dun itself literally means 'Valley of God.' The trek follows the Supin River, tributary of the River Tons and passes through the beautiful villages of this valley to reach the huge Rolling Meadows at Har ki Dun
